Comments: Looking at the TPO map of 1967, it would seem that, over the years many trees have gone from this site. I have visited the site and can see no reason to remove the oak tree, which is a significant feature if the garden. Nor can I see any reason to remove the sycamore. All the trees add to the ambience of the site. Certainly they should be managed and , I would imagine, that encouraging wild life, particularly bird life, would be an advantage to the residents. I can see no reason to fell any trees on this site and strongly oppose it.
