Comments: This house is within a run of houses within a cinservation area where the roof line has remained unchanged. The proposal to install dormer Windows changes the view of the roofs and materially affects the character of the conservation area.
The installation of an electrical charging point for a car is more problematic. While one would like to encourage the use of electric cars, nevertheless this proposal appears to be a way of applying for a crossover which, to me, is unacceptable and, again materially alters the streetscape in a conservation area. Is it not possible to have an on street recharging arrangement?
