What's your query?	We have a young tree on private land that is within a conservation area and the tree appears to have died. No new growth, when the bark is scrapped back it is all brown and all the leaves are brown. Any spots of new growth just fall off. Photos attached. What is the process, if any, of notifying the Council of the dead tree so it can be removed. There is no TPO on the tree. When the tree is removed is there an obligation to replant? If yes, what are the requirements.
