Comments: The design is in keeping with our street. All properties from 30-18 crescent rise and many beyond have similar size single storey extensions. I think this proposal is only just over the permitted limit for buildings notice, the 0.5 metres is a very minimal difference so size seems proportionally correct for the house and street. The design is tasteful and doesn't look likely to cause any privacy or light issue for ourselves or other neighbours. Number 24 had a loft conversion in the past and were extremely courteous and respectful, keeping noise between 9-4.30 monday to friday and pre-warning neighbours of work being carried out and of any potential disruption. All our neighbours and number 24's neighbours have carried out extensive renovations in recent years and this is to be expected in an urban street in London. We live in close proximity to each other and a bit of give and take is required to allow all to make improvements to our properties.
