

Pittosporum and hornbeam trees in rear garden of 7 Vallance Road

Pittosporum is the dark leaved tree in front of the hornbeam

Hornbeam is the tree on the right. Photo shows the pittosporum branches at the top interfering with the hornbeam crown. Lower pittosporum branches have been pruned back over the years to minimise interference with the hornbeam. The pittosporum blocks the light so the bottom of the garden is always in shade. The owners would like to remove the pittosporum and increase the planting area at the bottom of the garden.
