Submission: Objection

Comments: 1)The evidence that roots are a significant cause of subsidence must be made available. Too many of our valuable street trees are lost to insurance companies which have no proven interest in the well being of communities in relation to trees (eg the shade they provide and the air they clean).

2) Felling must be the last option. Expert advice needs to be taken on the other options. This is something the insurer should do and then submit for independent scrutiny.
