Ash - Cut the entire tree to ground level This is a self-sown tree which is damaging the retaining wall in the neighbours garden (to the rear)

The photos, which put the tree in the corner of the garden, seem inconsistent with site plan, putting it in the centre of the rear boundary. This tree provides screening for the house in Priory Gardens, who are on a lower level. There is no evidence of damage to a wall. The tree is clearly visible, as part of a group, from Priory Gardens; see photograph
