

COCKEREL CLOCK

PROJECT OVERVIEW

Dating back to the 1950s, Spurs’ iconic Cockerel Clock is a symbol for the teams’ rich history. Originally attached to The Red House, the Clock has since been restored to its former glory and is now ready to be displayed at its new home as part of the Tottenham Hotspur Stadium development.

The new proposal would see the golden cockerel reinstated on the corner of the High Road and Park Lane, attached to a lamp post, similar to the one which the Club was founded at.
