7.1 Introduction

- 7.1.1 Refreshed Greater London Historic Environment Record (GLHER) data was obtained on 20/06/20th July 2023 (GLHER Search Reference: 17858). This Appendix provides details of the archaeological investigations that have been carried out on the site and within a 500m radius study area, since the original archaeological desk-based assessment was written in 2009. The locations of the Additional archaeological investigations is shown in Figure 7.1.

Table 7.1: Additional archaeological investigations since 2009

Description	Site code/GLHER ref.
Tottenham Hotspur Football Club An archaeological evaluation was undertaken by L-P Archaeology in 2010 and 2014. The site comprised seven trial trenches. No archaeological finds or features were observed.	NLN10 157523 ELO14076
Northumberland Park Development An archaeological evaluation was undertaken by L-P Archaeology in 2010. The site comprised seven trenches located over the development area which revealed no archaeological finds or features. The only remains predating the previous development were the chemical works which stood on the former visitors car park of Tottenham Hotspurs Station.	NLN10 161680 ELO12443
St Pauls Road/Shelbourne Road/Landsdowne Road, Tottenham An archaeological watching brief undertaken by Compass Archaeology during Thames Water Victorian mains replacement works in Tottenham in 2011. Approximately 0.9km of trenching was observed within three defined areas. The majority of trenching exposed modern road layers directly overlying truncated natural deposits of silty clays and gravel. Several areas exposed shallow layers of truncated subsoils, thought to date to the later 19th Century. No significant archaeological finds or features were observed.	TXL11 163659 ELO12061
Brooks House, Former Cannon Rubber Factory, 881 High Road, N17 An archaeological evaluation was undertaken by L-P Archaeology in 2013. The evaluation revealed no archaeological remains in any of the five trenches, the site had been severely disturbed by previous development activity.	BOK13 169749 ELO20459

Cornelius,

Thank you. I have responded to Haringey's formal consultation last year and recommended no further archaeological requirements, see the GLAAS/Historic England letter on the planning website. So unless an archaeological condition has been attached anyway. From our point of view there is limited value in carry out a generic watching brief.

The difficulty here is that meaningful archaeological intervention would , if focusing on the post-medieval archaeology associated with the houses and building along the high road, would need to be carefully targeted and supported by detailed historical research. So a watching brief with specific research aims may still bring some interesting results.

Perhaps you could send me a copy of the decision notice?

John

Yours sincerely

Good Morning John

Please find attached draft WSI for watching brief on works at White Hart Lane "Tottenham Experience", application ref HGY/2015/3000. Apologies I meant to send this out to you last week.

This continues from evaluation works in 2011 and 2014 to this morning which were entirely negative- I have attached the AER from the last phase of the eval. Please let me know if you need any further information.

Client are (as always) keen to start work as soon as possible. I am going to site this morning to discuss timetable with their main contractor, and will give you a call later today to discuss if that's ok.

Best Regards

Cornelius
