Comments: The building proposed for Fortis Green Road should be a storey taller, because it would provide more housing whilst better fitting the context of the older four storey mansion blocks down the road towards Fortis Green Road.

In general, I wholeheartedly support this development. ALL new housing development reduces private housing costs in the locality from what they would otherwise be had the development not been built. Thus, it would be madness to oppose new housing like this in the midst of the enormous housing shortage London is presently experiencing.
