Comments: I live close to the Stanhope Bridge and am a frequent user of the Parkland Walk. I feel fortunate to live close to the Walk which holds a nature reserve.

Hearing the plan which involves cutting down more trees (I've noticed a number of trees disappeared along the Walk) and not retaining them I strongly object the plan. I object because we need to retain trees especially now when we are facing environmental and climate crisis.

I agree with local arboriculturist Robin Howorth who points out that there are other more suitable access points, such as Holmesdale road which requires less work therefore cost effective and minimum destruction to the surrounding nature.
